Overview

IMPORTANT NOTES

- Do not cut DC jack or RJ45 jack as warranty will be voided.
- Do not open camera case, no serviceable parts.

Before Starting

1. Please read this manual carefully and keep it for future reference.
2. Use the camera within given temperature and electrical limits.
3. Do not mount the camera in areas exposed to radiation, strong magnetic fields, or strong electrical signals.
4. Do not point the camera at the sun. Heat could damage the camera, even when not in use.
5. Do not open or disassemble the camera. There are no field-serviceable parts inside.
6. Do not drop the camera or subject it to strong vibrations.

Installation

1. Run a 12VDC power supply wire and cable with an RJ45 jack through the wall at the location where the camera is to be mounted. The 12VDC power supply wire is not required if using PoE.
2. Install and Execute "Device Config Tool" on a computer connected to the same network as the camera.
3. Press the "Search" button. This will search for IP cameras connected to the same router on the network. It may take several seconds to complete. Default IP address is 192.168.1.168.
4. Once the search is complete, click on the camera IP or type the IP address manually using Internet Explorer.
5. IP Address: The camera may use Dynamic or Static IP addressing. An example of a typical static IP setting is as follows:
IP Address: 192.168.0.10 (you can change the last column)
6. Input "admin" for user ID and password. If this is the user's first time logging into the camera, the user will be prompted for a new password.
NOTE: If the password is unknown, hold the RESET button located on the camera for about 10 seconds and reload "Device Config Tool".
7. In order to access the camera web interface, the user will be prompted to download and install the Active-X web plugin.
8. Once installed, the user will be able to view live camera video and modify necessary configurations.

NOTE: For the full Web Admin manual, download from the camera's product page on www.seco-larm.com.

Camera Angle and Positioning

To adjust the camera angle and positioning, loosen the camera angle adjustment screw and mounting arm adjustment screw. Rotate the camera and position the mounting arm in the desired position and retighten the screws.
